

For Jenny and Martin.

Working For Profit: The Social Organisation of Calculation in an Entrepreneurial Firm

R. J. ANDERSON
Manchester Polytechnic
J. A. HUGHES
Lancaster University
W. W. SHARROCK
Manchester University

Avebury

Aldershot · Brookfield USA · Hong Kong · Singapore · Sydney

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise without the prior permission of Gower Publishing Company Limited.

Published by
Avebury
Gower Publishing Company Limited
Gower House,
Croft Road,
Aldershot,
Hants GU11 3HR
England

Gower Publishing Company
Old Post Road
Brookfield
Vermont 05036
USA

Printed and Bound in Great Britain by
Athenaeum Press Ltd., Newcastle upon Tyne.

Contents

	Preface	1
PART ONE	THE ECONOMIC AND THE SOCIAL
	Introduction	11
1.	Socio-Economics: a self defeating project	15
2.	Cartesian Economics and the place of the Entrepreneur	27
3.	Sociological Reasoning	49
PART TWO	THE SOCIAL AND THE CALCULATIVE
	Introduction	59
4.	Management Rationalities	67
5.	Organisation and the Entrepreneurial Eye	83

PART THREE STUDIES IN THE SOCIAL ORGNAISATION OF CALCULATION

	Introduction	101
6.	On Calculability	103
7.	Creative Accountancy	123
8.	Practical Pricing	139
9.	Working within a Division of Labour	159
10.	Postscript: Irony and the Profit Motive	173
	Bibliography	181
	Index	193

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Industry and Employment Committee of The Economic and Social Research Council provided funding under Grant No F 00232213 enabling one of us (Bob Anderson) to take sabbatical leave to carry out fieldwork at LTC.

Portions of various chapters were presented at the following: The Boston Institute for Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis, 1985; Anthropology Department Staff Seminar, University of Manchester, 1985; Department of Behaviour in Organisations Staff-Student Seminar, University of Lancaster 1987; 'Erving Goffman, an interdisciplinary appreciation', York 1986; 'Action Analysis-Conversation Analysis', Maison de la Science de l'Homme, Paris 1987. We would like to thank the participants at these occasions for their many helpful comments.

A number of colleagues both in our Departments at Lancaster and Manchester and elsewhere have helped us with advice, comment and criticism. We would like to thank them all, particularly Steve Ackroyd, Peter Eglin, Gail Jefferson, Fred Kersten, John Lee, Pete Martin, Bryan Roberts and Rod Watson. Gail Jefferson provided most of the baseline transcripts from which the ones we have used were derived. We owe an especial debt to Dave Francis not only for taking on extra burdens during Bob Anderson's leave but also for a close reading of various drafts. His attentions improved the final version immeasurably.

Bob Anderson would like to thank his family for their forbearance and support throughout the period of fieldwork.

We would also like to thank the staff, customers, clients and competitors of LTC but especially Giles, Sandy and Colin for their openness in allowing us access to their daily business lives, and for the help, advice and support which they gave us. Above all else, though, there is Lawrence, without whose willingness to have his very own social parasite around the place, nothing would have been possible.

We would like to thank the following: Select Press and the Editors of The Journal for Social Behaviour and Personality for permission to quote extensively from A. Etzioni, 'Socio-Economics: a proposal for a new interdisciplinary field.' Journal of Social Behaviour and Personality, vol 1, 1986, pp. 375-82. The University of Chicago Press for permission to quote extensively from F. Knight, Risk Uncertainty and Profit. Chicago. University of Chicago Press. 1971. Basil Blackwell Ltd. for permission to use the diagrams on pages 37, 38, 39 and 40 from M. Casson. The Entrepreneur. Martin Robertson. 1982.